Wolf Discussion: Summary Provided by FWP Wildlife Management Bureau Chief
Quentin Kujala

These meetings are information presentations and are not intended as a formal call for public comment. That window will be initiated by the December 20 Commission meeting when we will ultimately propose a specific wolf season alongside any number of deer, elk, moose, sheep, goat, lion and bear season proposals that might also come forward during the established biennial season setting process. A specific wolf season itself does not yet exist.

The topic might be best titled as wolf season setting status and process. Again, the season's details have not been established. The three major components of the presentation will be history/how we have come to this point, season considerations/issues (things a season needs to measure or accommodate) and a review of Commission process (assuming that some in attendance may have no experience with the Commission or season setting).

The topic is intended to take about 2 hours--that includes both the presentation and questions/answers/discussion. The presentation is being assembled by Wildlife and Communication Education staff in Helena
